time is central to our lived experience of the world yet as this book reveals it is startlingly difficult to reconcile the way we seem to experience time with many of the theories presented to us in physics and metaphysics this comprehensive and accessible introduction guides the unfamiliar reader through difficult questions at the intersection of the metaphysics and physics of time it starts with the assumption that physics and metaphysics are inextricably connected and that each can and should shed light on the other the authors explore a range of views about the nature of time showing how different these are from the way we typically think about time and our place in it they consider such questions as whether time travel is possible and if it is whether we can change the past whether there is a single moment that is objectively present whether time flows or is static and whether ultimately time exists at all an introduction to the philosophy of time will appeal to students of physics and philosophy who want both a comprehensive overview of the area and enough depth to allow for rigorous discussion the book's detailed readings and exercises will challenge students and provide a clear roadmap for further study

Toward a Dialectic of Philosophy and Organization is an exploration of Hegel's dialectic and its radical re-creation in Marx's thought within the context of revolutions and revolutionary organizations in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Does a dialectic in philosophy itself bring forth a dialectic in revolutionary organization? This question is explored via organizational practices in the Paris Commune, the 2nd International, the Russian Revolutions of 1905 and 1917, the Spanish Revolution of 1936-37, and the Hungarian Revolution of 1956, as well as the theoretical organizational concepts of such thinkers as Lassalle, Lenin, Luxemburg, Trotsky, and Pannekoek. What philosophic organizational vantage point is needed for revolutionary transformation today is examined by engaging the theoretical arguments of a number of thinkers among them Adorno, Dunayevskaya, Hardt, and Negri, Holloway, Lebowitz, Lukcás, Mészáros, and Postone.
